Two Kinds of People

There are a lot of people hereabouts who are just as frugal and thrifty as it is necessary for anyone to be, and they can safely stop reading at this point.

There are a lot of other good people here who should adopt some very definite and certain plan for saving. For instance, every time a gallon of gasoline is used for pleasure, or whenever one indulges in any little pet extravagance of luxury, he should each week or month set aside an equal amount in an irreducible fund against the "rainy day" that is certain to come as time itself.

Try this plan in our Savings Department where we pay interest at the rate of four per cent compounded semi-annually.
